Intergulf Corporation joins BAHEP

BAY AREA HOUSTON, TX – Intergulf Corporation, an industrial liquids management company specializing in procuring, blending, treating, and processing petroleum, petrochemical secondary products, and waste streams, has joined the Bay Area Houston Economic Partnership. Bob Mitchell, BAHEP president, welcomed the company stating, “Intergulf plays an important role in the community by recycling and treating secondary products from area petrochemical facilities and turning these waste streams into useable products such as fuel, oil, or solvents. I’m very pleased that Intergulf has decided to participate in the region’s economic development efforts.”

Alvin Garza, Intergulf’s manager of Environmental Health & Safety and Human Resources, is an active member of BAHEP’s Chemical Industry Advisory Panel. He added, “Intergulf is committed to being actively involved in the community. BAHEP has a very positive reputation as an advocate for the various industries in the community. As such, we felt it was important for us, both as a company and a member of the petrochemical industry, to become involved with this organization.”

Strategically located along the Houston Ship Channel, Intergulf is actively involved in the petrochemical community, as well, and understands the dynamics involved in this sensitive, highly regulated arena.
